On a lighter note: Police attended a report of a stolen vehicle. The victim was watching offenders on his cctv system. Officers were doing a search of the local area when the victim reported the offenders had just returned the vehicle... When Police attended the premises the vehicle was in situ and the engine was cold. It turned out the victim had not reset the cctv and was watching himself drive away in the vehicle earlier that day.

Positive Policing: Police have been called to numerous vehicles stuck in flood water today..... If you are not sure do not drive through it!

Have a lovely Christmas and New Year!

Kind Regards
Kevin
